Summary and progression

Significance:

Understanding why some events, individuals, situations, changes, societies and periods are considered significant.

Remarkable: The event or development was literally remarkable—in the sense that it was remarked upon by people at the time or afterward. Alternatively, it could be unusual, beyond the realm of normal life.

Remembered: The event or development was important at some stage in history within the collective memory of a group or groups.

Revealing: It reveals something noteworthy about that time period or challenges us to consider an unexpected aspect of the past.

Resonant: it is possible to connect with experiences, beliefs, or situations we experience today.

Resulting in Change: It had consequences for the future.

Educational Program

Understanding the world involves guiding children to make sense of their physical world and their community. The frequency and range of children's personal experiences increases their knowledge and sense of the world around them – from visiting parks, libraries and museums to meeting important members of society such as police officers, nurses and firefighters. In addition, listening to a broad selection of stories, non-fiction, rhymes and poems will foster their understanding of our culturally, socially, technologically and ecologically diverse world. As well as building important knowledge, this extends their familiarity with words that support understanding across domains. Enriching and widening children's vocabulary will support later reading comprehension.

- 1. Setting the motivating challenge.
- 2. Gathering information.
- 3. 'Working' the information.
- 4. Making judgments.
- 5. Refining thinking.
- Communicating understanding in as imaginative and varied ways as possible.

Historical Enquiry:

Understanding the methods of enquiry, including how evidence is used to make historical claims.

Ask and answer questions.

Examples of enquiry questions:

- Was Christopher Columbus a hero or villain?
 - Did Guy Fawkes make the right choice?
 - Would you rather be a child today or in the Victorian times?
- What is parliament? Where is it? What does it look like? What does a Prime Minister do?
- Fact vs Fiction do fictional stories really depict what was like in Victorian times?
- What can we find out about Victorian times by looking at artefacts and paintings?

Year 3

National Curriculum End Points for Key Stage 2;

- Pupils should continue to develop a chronologically secure knowledge and understanding of British, local and world history, establishing clear narratives within and across the periods they study. They should note connections, contrasts and trends over time and develop the appropriate use of historical terms
- They should regularly address and sometimes devise historically valid questions about change, cause, similarity and difference, and significance.
 They should construct informed responses that involve thoughtful selection and organisation of relevant historical information.
- They should understand how our knowledge of the past is constructed from a range of sources.

Year 3 areas of study:

AUTUMN:

Stone Age (including Iron Age) vs Ancient Egypt Invasion and Settlers

 Stone-age people formed settlements and developed form hunter gatherers to farmers.

Civilisation:

- Rise and fall of both civilisations. Compare everyday life, hierarchy, achievements, religion & warfare. AE civilisation. A civilisation is a way of life that is better or more advanced than another way of life.
- That religion was a big part of the AE civilisation.

The three eras of the stone age:

- Palaeolithic
- Mesolithic
- Neolithic
- People formed settlements and civilisations and that these developed over time.
- People developed from hunter-gatherers to farmers.
- Change in civilisation throughout the SA period Paleolithic (hunter gatherers) to Neolithic (farmers)

Diversity:

- Cheddar man how did he get here? Comparing classes. Cheddar man migrated.
- People travelled and traded.
- Cheddar man how did he get here?

SPRING:

Significant people and events- architects, engineers and designers

Civilisation:

Look at the achievements of a significant engineer such as Isambard Kingdom Brunel and his impact.

Key Learning – what children must know, do and remember:

Chronological Knowledge and Understanding:

Identifying links across and between different periods and between different historical categories e.g. economic, political, social, etc.

Extend and deepen their chronologically secure knowledge of history e.g. know how long ago something happened, and have a sense of how long each era in History lasted.

Develop a sense of period, what was it really like living in that era? Roman times, Ancient Egypt, StoneAge

Continuity and Change:

Continuity and Change — understanding how and why change occurs in history, why and how things stay the same and analysing trend Describe / make links between main events, situations and changes within and across different periods /societies e.g. what has changed, but more importantly what has stayed the same? Is change always good? What were the similarities and differences between Stone Age and Ancient Egypt?

Cause and Consequence:

Identify, describe reasons for and results of historical events, situations and changes studied in the past.

Analyse / explain reasons for, and results of, historical events, situations, changes e.g. what was the specific cause of x or y and why it happened then rather than at another time.

Significance:

Understanding why some events, individuals, situations, changes, societies and periods are considered significant.

Consider/explain the significance of events, people and developments in their context and in the present e.g. How have they had a long and lasting impact? Why do we study some people and events and not others? Why are those events important enough to study? Septimus Severus,

Brunel, Boudicca, Julius Ceasar

Historical Enquiry:

Understanding the methods of enquiry, including how evidence is used to make historical claims.

Pursue historically valid enquiries including some they have framed.

Understand how different types of sources are used rigorously to make historical claims.

Create relevant, structured and evidentially supported accounts.

Discern how and why contrasting arguments and interpretations of the past have been constructed e.g. are historical accounts biased depending on the author?

Enquiry questions:

- Cheddar Man -how did he get there? What can we learn about the Stone Age from Cheddar Man?
- What can we find out aboutthe past from artefacts?
- Why did the Romans invade Britain?
- What did the Romans do for us? What was their legacy? -roads, medicine, trade, democracy
- How diverse was the Roman Army? Who was Septimus Severus?
- Fact vs Fiction do fictional stories really depict what it was like in Roman times?
- How have people settled in Britain over the years?

Possible evidence to demonstrate working at the Expected Standard for Year 3:

- Place the time studied on a timeline.
- Use dates and terms related to the study unit and passing of time.
- Sequence several events or artefacts.
- Find out about everyday lives of people in time studied.
- Compare with our life today.
- Identify reasons for and results of people's actions.
- Understand why people may have wanted to do something.
- Identify and give reasons for different ways in which the past is represented.
- Distinguish between different sources - compare different versions of the same story.
- Look at representations of the period – museum, cartoons etc.
- Use a range of sources to find out about a period.
- Observe small details artefacts, pictures.
- Select and record information relevant to the study.
- Begin to use the library and internet for research.
